

COUNTY OPTION WAS DISCUSSED

Social Democrat State Senator Objects To Measure Until Labor Conditions Are Bettered.

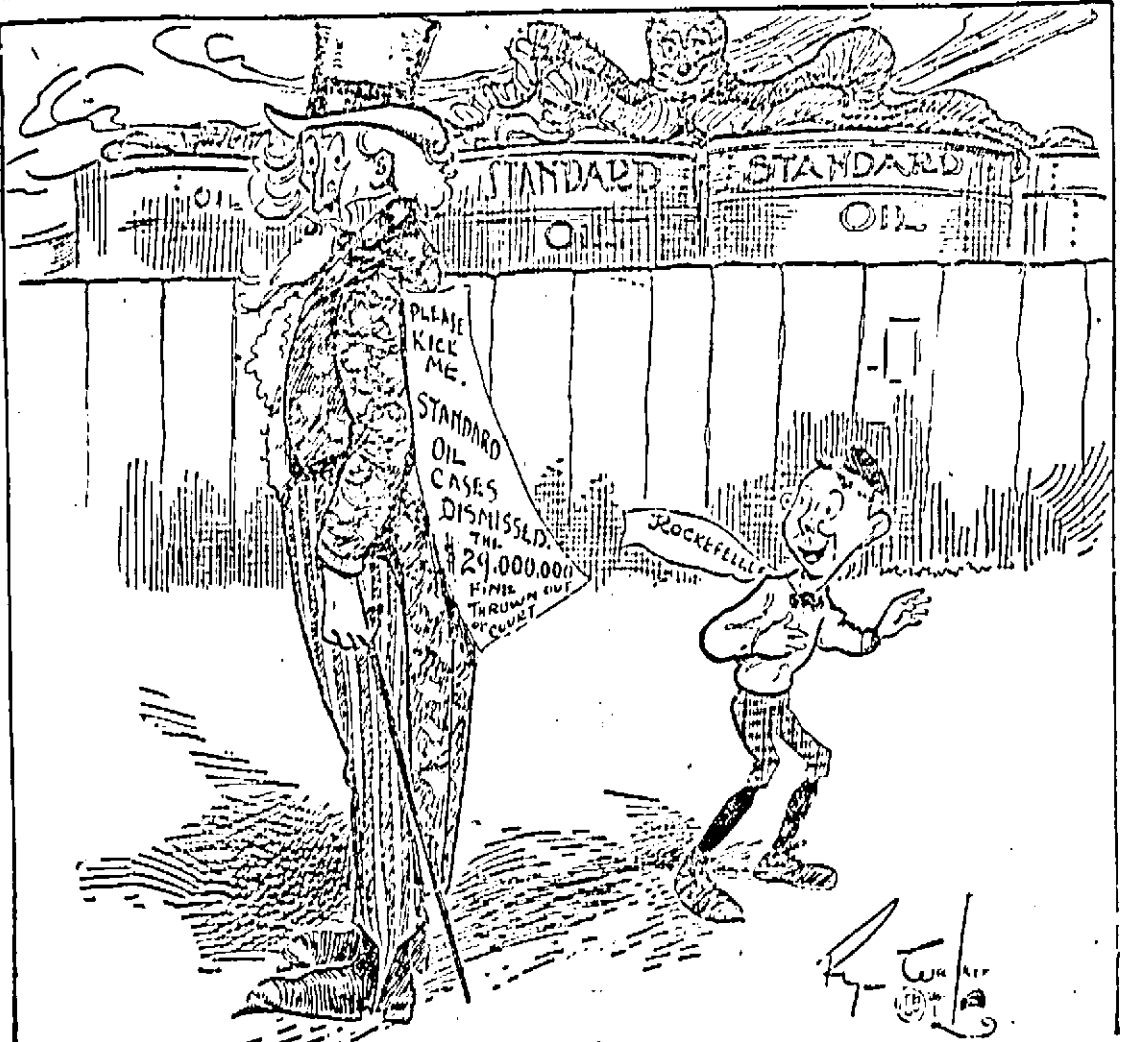

LA FOLLETTE USED GAME WARDENS

Tax Payers Paid Their Salary While They Worked Under His Direction As Political Agents Through- out The State.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 31.—Senator March's county option law was the subject of the debate in the state senate this morning and one of the hottest debates of the session resulted in the attempt of the strong temperance element to pass the measure, Poor Man's Club.
The feature of the debate was the arguments advanced against the measure by Senator Gaylord of Milwaukee, a social democrat, who opposed the bill as not getting at the root of the saloon evil, calling them the "Poor Man's Club."
Needed Reform.
Senator Gaylord held that the saloons should exist until the other evils of the state such as intemperance, long hours of toil, poor wages and poor educational advantages for the laboring classes existed in the larger cities of the state.
Still Talking.
After the dinner recess the arguments were resumed and the contest became very spirited. It is doubtful if the vote will be taken this afternoon although the friends of the measure are trying to force a clear cut issue at once.
In the Assembly.
In the assembly this morning the debate was confined to the increase of the county's share of the inheritance tax, of which the county now receives but five per cent. The debate was not concluded this morning.

NARROW ESCAPE OF AUTOMOBILE PARTY

Machine Containing Mr. and Mrs. Bert Van Houten and Friends Hurled Twenty Feet into Ditch.
Sheer, blind luck was all that saved an automobile party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Van Houten and William Lawlor and his daughter, from death Monday night. The party were returning from a trip to Beloit by the prairie road and when about half way here, just after crossing a bridge, struck a place where the bank had craved in, and the auto was thrown twenty feet into the ditch, spilling the party; knocking Mr. Van Houten senseless for a few seconds; badly damaging the machine and knocking out five fence posts which bordered the road. The car remained upright, otherwise the entire party might have been killed.
The bank under the road where it ran onto the bridge had been washed away, but while the frost was in the ground the road held together. The softening of the ground caused the dirt to sink, making a small gully about three feet wide and five feet long. When the auto which was a new Buick car Mr. Van Houten had just purchased, got to the spring struck this gully, it slipped off into the ditch.
Besides the severe shaking up, none of the members of the party were injured except Mr. Van Houten whose limb was wrenched by the dive he took when the machine came to such a sudden stop.
The shock of the fall broke the radiator of the car bent the fender, shattered the glass on the front of the machine and did some other slight damage to it. The cost of repair will probably not exceed $125. The machine was brought in from the country this morning and will be fixed up immediately.

WHO CHARMED THE WISE AT NISHAPUR

This is the Centenary of Edward Fitzgerald, Renowned Translator of Omar's Quatrains.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, March 31.—The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Edward Fitzgerald, the famous translator of Omar Khayyam, was observed with appropriate exercises today at Cambridge university, where Fitzgerald was a fellow-student of Tennyson and others who afterwards achieved literary fame.
Fitzgerald was born in Suffolk, March 21, 1809, of distinguished Irish and English ancestry. His ample fortune gave him every opportunity to pursue his taste for literature. It was as a translator, rather than as a poet, that he became renowned. He began with Calidron, publishing six of his dramas in 1833, and two more in 1835. In 1839 came the first of unaccounted editions of Omar Khayyam. In 1855 appeared his Agamemnon and in 1880 his Oedipus. Incomparably the most remarkable of all these renditions was his Omar. His one original work was "Euphrasie," modeled upon the dialogues of Plato.

DRIVES SCREWS STRAIGHT

Holder Keeps Them From Wobbling About or Dropping Out.

The driving of a screw, like the driving of a nail, appears to the inexperienced to be a very simple proceeding. Unless you have pounded their thumbs and driven screws at every angle and in every position, however, you are liable to make a mistake. A Philadelphia has designed this holder consists of two plates shaped at one end so as to engage the shank of the screw-driver and with spring jaws.

HOOD TO HOME CARPENTERS.

which engage the flattened end of the shank. These jaws are also equipped with a device which holds the end of the screw in place on the end of the driver shank and there is no danger of the screw wobbling about and going in crooked, as is so often the case. Unless a screw is driven straight, it cannot be inserted as far as it should go. This is especially true where it is inserted into holes left for it in metal plates, as in bridges, etc. The holder described is of almost any driver shank.

SCIENCE NOTES

The ports of Tampa and Texan are being connected by a waterway more than 100 miles long and paralleling the Gulf coast from 2 to 25 miles. It is 75 feet wide and 100 feet deep. Its purpose is to afford a safe channel for the many small craft engaged in the coastwise trade, which find rough weather and a bar at the mouth of the Tampa River a serious obstacle to their business. A shallow canal has connected the two cities for 75 years, but the new waterway, which was commenced about nine years ago, will afford greatly increased facilities for the smaller boats engaging in the coastwise trade.

A substitute for human urine has been found in the forests of the Philippines in a weed known as manna, but the local name of which is Xanthoxanthum vermicularis. Naves, investigation by representatives of the Navy Department seems to indicate that the weed is a trifling hardier even than human urine, and at the same time much easier to handle. It is found in convenient places, where there are no difficulties of lumbering and transportation. It is impervious to the action of water and resists the attacks of insects. It is said that it can be delivered in New York at half the price of human urine.

An elevated water tank, costing about $25,000,000, will in all likelihood be erected in the vicinity of Calumet to augment the water supply of that city. The American consul at that point is endeavoring to think that no American company is making any effort to get the contract for the work, not only for the profit which is offered but for the prestige to be gained by the performance of such a contract by an American firm.

Coke for locomotive firing has been experimented with by the Illinois Central Railroad, in the endeavor to eliminate the smoke nuisance at its Chicago terminal. The test has been in progress on two switch engines for several weeks, with results which the city and inspection department considers indicate that the use of coke will be successful. The trial has been conducted for such a brief period that no general conclusion as to the relative cost of the coke as fuel can be drawn. Since the railroad officials are convinced it is impracticable to burn oil in the locomotives in this terminal, the favorable outcome of the experiments with coke will probably lead to the adoption of that fuel for all of these locomotives during the investigation of the scheme for the proposed electrification of the company's Chicago property.

ROBERT T. WASHINGTON

To investigate affairs in Liberia. Robert C. Ogden, New York philanthropist, and Booker T. Washington, president of Tuskegee Institute.

Washington, D. C.—With the appropriation of $20,000 by congress to defray the expenses of a commission appointed by the state department to go to Liberia and investigate the affairs of this little African republic, it seems that the United States has at least awakened to the crisis of her protegee across the Atlantic. Robert C. Ogden, a prominent New York philanthropist, and Booker T. Washington, president of the Tuskegee Institute are to compose this commission, as has just been announced by the state department, and they are making preparations to leave at once.

DISTINGUISHED CLAIRVOYANT

Mr. Wm. Keller, the Famous German Clairvoyant and Psychologist, Is Now in Janesville.

Mr. Keller Astonishes People Who Call to Test His Occult Powers—Reads Thoughts and Tells Past and Future—Insists Upon Giving Satisfaction to His Clients.

Without a doubt one of the greatest known clairvoyants in the world today is Mr. Keller, the distinguished clairvoyant and psychic, who has just come to Janesville from Chicago.

The marvelous manifestations of his wonderful powers are far superior to the ordinary palmist and fortune teller as the perfect automobile is to the wheelbarrow.

Those who come to scoff may not remain to scoff, but they go away with a puzzled look on their faces, wondering mightily. Perhaps you laugh at first when you see the rather peculiar methods used by the professor in telling a fortune, but when he commences to talk and juggle up fact after fact, which you know to be true, even to the smallest detail, your laugh dies away, and you gaze in amazement akin to awe at the mysterious man before you as though he were some uncanny being fresh from another world.

You are chained to the chair with fascination, while your past and future are laid bare before you. After answering that question you are perplexed and absolutely draw forth your purse, throwing an inquiring glance at Mr. Keller. He smiles and asks you if you are satisfied, saying that he never accepts payment until assured that a person is perfectly satisfied and that he believes he has received fair return for his money.

Most assuredly the professor differs from other clairvoyants. You laugh, still rather confusedly, and, like every one else, declare that you are glad to pay the small compensation asked. Many affirm in money value can be fixed upon the good they have received.

The professor tells fortunes by astrology and clairvoyance. He is absolutely reliable, and realizing that merit brings reward when the reading is over with, you do not hug to pay unless you feel satisfied with what you have been told.

As for clairvoyance, it has both supporters and enemies. The theory of clairvoyance, however, is inseparable from a science that has so firmly impressed itself upon the public mind as to leave no doubt as to its truthfulness. Reference is made to mesmerism, or hypnotic influence, which of late years has been demonstrated to be as viable an occult force as one could well imagine.

Ladies and gentlemen can visit Mr. Keller without fear of having their confidence betrayed, as he considers his business a sacred trust. Mr. Keller can be consulted daily at the New Myers Hotel, ladies' entrance, parlor floor, parlor C. Mrs. Keller receives all callers.

Hours, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., daily; 10 to 4 Sundays. He positively will see no one after hours.

Infants' Educators

The human foot should be allowed to grow naturally. To shape it to the changing fashion is to force the soft, pliable, growing bones, cords and muscles into unnatural and deformed shapes.

The foot thus pinched from its natural shape is often a source of suffering in later life. These pictures show the right and wrong way of shoeing the infant's foot.

Flexibility, lightness, and wear are provided by specially selected soles. Soft, pliable leather, that readily yields to every movement of the tender foot is selected for the uppers of the Infants' EDUCATOR.

20,000 BOYS SEEK KIDNAPER.

Sons of Daniel Boone Hunt for Flint (Mich.) Lad.

New York, Mar. 31.—Twenty thousand American boys, all members of a social and athletic organization known as the Sons of Daniel Boone, have enlisted in the task of running down the kidnaper of one of their number, Harold Moon, a member of the Flint (Mich.) chapter of the organization, who disappeared on February 27.

The aid of the Sons of Daniel Boone was invoked by Ralph Moon, a brother of the kidnaped boy in a letter of appeal sent to every chapter of the organization in America. "Please get right to work and hustle," urges the boy in his letter, "for the honor of our great society and to help a fellow scout who is in the hands of the enemy."

Negro Students Lose Suit.

Lansing, Mich., Mar. 31.—Two colored students who were dismissed from Grand Rapids, Mich., veterinary college some time ago, following the objection of white students to their presence, yesterday were denied a writ of mandamus by the supreme court to compel the college to let them pursue their studies.

CATARRH DESTROYED MY APPETITE.

PERUNA rarely fails to restore the appetite. Immediately upon beginning the use of Peruna patients begin to eat and digest. This is the universal testimony, coming from all parts of the civilized world.

Catarrh is a very frequent cause of loss of appetite and disturbed digestion. The beneficial influence of Peruna on catarrh completely restores the appetite in such cases.

To prod the digestive organs with medicine that are merely stimulants is a poor way to remedy such cases.

"I am now cured and cheerful in spirit, all through the agency of Peruna, which has cured me effectively and restored my appetite."
"My only regret is that I did not use Peruna sooner and I would have avoided all my previous suffering and misery."
—Mr. Joseph H. Conlan.

Removed Catarrh, Restored Appetite.

Mr. Joseph H. Conlan, 457 7th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I suffered from catarrh which completely destroyed my appetite and weakened my entire system."

"I am now cured and cheerful in spirit, all through the agency of Peruna, which has cured me effectively and restored my appetite."

"My only regret is that I did not use Peruna sooner and I would have avoided all my previous suffering and misery."

Torpid Liver, Stomach Trouble.

Mr. James O'Brien, 625 Madison St., Topeka, Kas., conductor Santa Fe Railway and member Order of Railway Conductors, writes:

"I suffered with a torpid liver and stomach trouble, which made my complexion very sallow, and I felt miserable and tired all the time."

"An aunt wrote me that she was taking Peruna with such good results that she advised me to try it, and I finally bought a bottle, although I disliked to take patent medicines."

"However, I found Peruna very agreeable to take, and effective, as I felt better in a week. I took only five bottles in all and I found that was all I needed. I am most grateful to you for what your medicine has done for me."

Dysentery Entirely Relieved.

Mr. W. S. Casey, Leamington, Ill., writes: "In two weeks after beginning your treatment I was well. I used nine bottles of Peruna. My case was bowel trouble or dysentery."

"After using several bottles of Peruna I can recommend it as one of the best catarrh medicines on the market. As a tonic it has no equal."

"Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mr. Henry Nozly, First Lieutenant, Co. "B," 8th Regiment, U. S. V., Box 623, Trenton, Mo., writes: "I suffered for years with catarrh of the stomach. Seeing an advertisement of Peruna, I bought a bottle and every dose made me feel better. Seven bottles completely cured me."

NO MINE LOCKOUT OF 150,000 MEN

Anthracite Operators Not to Close Collieries.

AGREEMENT EXPIRES TO-DAY

Employers to Continue Operations Under Old Rules If Men Want to Work—Small Companies to Follow
Action of Larger.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Mar. 31.—Officials of leading coal mining companies throughout the region, say there will be no lockout of the 150,000 men employed in the anthracite mines because of the expiration of the working agreement, to-night.

They reported that they expected to continue work on April 1, 2 and 3 and the mine workers report for work just the same as if the agreement was still in existence. They expect that the men will remain idle on April 1 to celebrate the winning of the eight-hour day in the soft coal region as that is the mine workers' annual holiday and President Lewis has ordered it. There will be work for them on Friday and Saturday, however, when they go to the mines.

Official Explains Plans.
A leading official of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Company was asked under what condition work for the three last days of the week would be conducted. He said:

"There will be no change; the wages, the hours and the working rules will remain the same as they are to-day, just as if the agreement was still in force."

Officials of the Temple Coal & Iron Company, the Hillside Coal & Iron Company, the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company, the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, the Delaware & Hudson Company, the Pennsylvania Coal Company, the Susquehanna Coal Company and others said substantially the same thing.

How long they will work without an agreement they cannot say, however; that depends, they declare, upon the orders received from their main office. All they can speak of now is of the remainder of the week.

Smaller Companies Uncertain.

Officials of the smaller coal companies and the independent operators are not so certain what they will do. Most of those interviewed said they were not sure whether they would work the latter part of this week or not. It is understood they are waiting to see what the big companies will do and that they will do the same.

At Mahanoy City all doubt as to a lockout at the mines was removed by the announcement that the collieries of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Company in the Mahanoy district will continue operations after this date until further notice. The Mill Creek Coal Company and the Dodson Coal Company have decided to pursue a similar policy.

LIMITS WOMEN'S WORKDAY.

Senator Jones Introduces Law Once

Annulled by Supreme Court.

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 31.—An eight-hour day for women who work is the subject of a bill introduced in the legislature by Senator Clyde Jones of Chicago, chairman of the senate steering committee.

The bill provides legislation which has been absent from Illinois statutes for 14 years, the state supreme court having ruled in 1895 that such a law was unconstitutional. Recently, however, a like law, passed in Oregon, was carried to the United States supreme court and there declared valid.

Flanice Disappears When Intrusted with Indiana Man's Cash.

South Bend, Ind., Mar. 31.—William Lacey, 70 years old, of Harvey, Ind., has asked the police of this city to help him find Annie Thode, 40 years his junior, formerly of Lyons, Ill., who he alleges, took $400 of his money and disappeared.

Lacey says that the two went to St. Joseph, Mo., to be married and that he left his fiancée at the hotel, handing over to her the money for safe keeping, while he went in search of a minister. When he returned, he alleges, Miss Thode had gone.

American Troops to Leave Cuba.

Havana, Mar. 31.—Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commander of the army of pacification, accompanied by his staff, the American minister, Edwin V. Morgan, and the American consul general, J. L. Rogers, visited the palace yesterday to inform President Gomez officially of the departure to-morrow of the last contingent of American soldiers.

American Ships Leave Amoy.

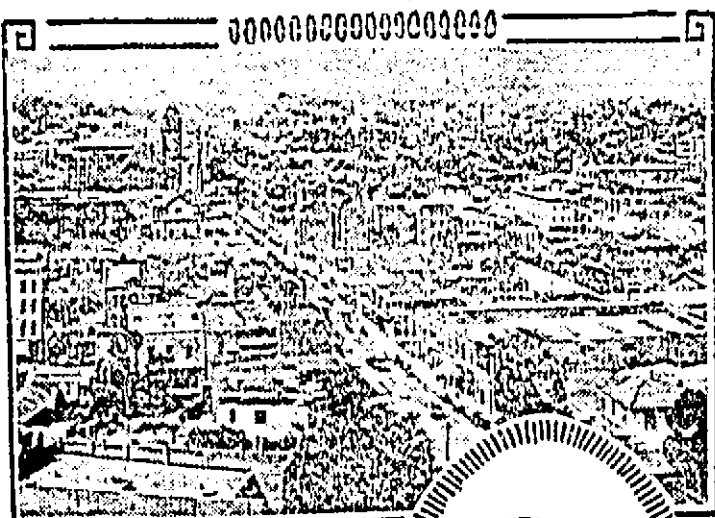

Amoy, Mar. 31.—The third squadron of the American Pacific fleet, under command of Rear Admiral G. H. Harber, sailed for Shanghai at seven o'clock this morning. Most favorable comments have been made by the residents of Amoy on the discipline of the American sailors and the efficiency of the squadron.

Alleged Smugglers Under Arrest.

New York, Mar. 31.—George Volson, a clerk in the French consulate here, was arrested yesterday by order of the federal authorities on a charge of complicity in the attempted smuggling of $3,000 worth of lace and diamonds. Maurice Harner, second officer of the La Savole, also is under arrest.

The Voice of Cash.

When money talks the foreigner with a title is likely to become a fascinated listener.

Los Angeles the first city to enforce a recall on a city official. Ex-Mayor Arthur C. Harper, who was forced to either resign or engage in another fight for his position.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Mayor Stephens has succeeded Arthur C. Harper who resigned under fire after the recall had been enforced in his case. He was at his office early today, busy with a multitude of important matters that has accumulated since the resignation of Mayor Harper.

The coming grand jury investigation in a subject of live interest and much speculation. It is expected that ex-Mayor A. C. Harper will be among the first witnesses to appear before the judicial body, together with E. T. Earl, proprietor of the Evening Express, whose alleged possession of evidence against Harper forced the latter to resign from office.

The resignation of Arthur C. Harper under the direct fire of the threatened recall, presents the first case in the world's history of a mayor or other city official being deposed after having been elected because the people did not like his methods.

This affords an example of what could have been accomplished in San Francisco had the recall been in effect during their recent civic upheaval, when the city was freed to put up with depositions for two years before satisfaction could be attained and during which time the officials were still conducting the city affairs. This case, it is thought, will bring more forcibly before the people of the United States the necessity for recall to safeguard against the wrong party being continued to office.

CHARLES H. MELLEN

Among the giants of the railroad world must be included Charles H. Mellen, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, which is known in the east as the Consolidated system.

A graduate of the western school of railroading, he has brought to the management of the consolidated system the foresighted ability and experience of years of training as president of the Northern Pacific railway. He was the first man in the country to see the strategic value of trolley lines as feeders to all great railroad systems and immediately upon assuming his duties here started about the extension of various trolley lines in New England which would supply to his road the large amount of passenger traffic that it required to make it a big paying railroad proposition. Today the New Haven system, through its subsidiaries, controls several thousand miles of trolley track in western Massachusetts, throughout Connecticut and Rhode Island.

He also foresaw the value of short steamship lines as feeders for his passenger and freight traffic and the road today controls practically all the regular traffic between ports of Long Island sound and New York city. Several times he has stolen a march on other railroads which attempted in various ways to bottle up New England. In fact, if it had not been for Mr. Mellen New England would have been bottled up and at the mercy of the big trunk lines and coal roads. He, however, went into the stock market and seized the New York, Ontario & Western, giving New England a road for about a year and a half and making it independent of the coal road.

The control of the New York, Ontario & Western is now vested in the New Haven system and under Mr. Mellen's direction it improved greatly in earning power.

Another striking move of his was the purchase of the Poughkeepsie bridge which was a link in the bridge line which was a link in the transcontinental route to Boston across New York state. Another road was after this, but Mr. Mellen got control of it. In keeping with his policy of expansion and improvement he has now doubled the bridge and all along the Poughkeepsie bridge and all along the line.

He is also making big plans for the electrification of his road into New York. To attain this, he purchased the franchise of a road which had never been built, but which gave him the right of way through the heart of the most valuable territory and terminal right in New York which could not be purchased under other circumstances for millions upon millions of dollars.

Perhaps the one move that has brought upon his head the greatest amount of opposition, criticism and abuse was his purchase of a majority of the stock of the Boston & Maine system, the other great railroad system of New England covering the northern half while the New Haven covers the southern part. The matter was brought out in the courts. In the legislature and the newspapers and is not yet settled, but with characteristic energy and strategy Mr. Mellen, while determined to hold onto the advantage he had gained, arranged to have the Boston & Maine stock sold to a syndicate headed by a Connecticut banker. The syndicate included people friendly to the New York, New Haven & Hartford. In this way he was able to retain control of the Boston & Maine while leaving its management as before and releasing his hand of any legal possibilities.

His hand is seen in the recent reduction by the Boston & Maine of its rate on import business which brought about a mild war from the other roads and slashes in their rates to meet the Boston & Maine rates. This reduction resulted in a tremendous increase in the Boston & Maine's business and has a far-reaching importance to the port of Boston as, under the old system Boston was losing a vast amount of import freight traffic to more favorably located ports like Baltimore, New Orleans and Galveston.

It is safe to predict that within the next ten years, if Mr. Mellen, lives to carry out his plans, that Boston will be the day that he became president of the New Haven system. New England manufacturers already have a glimmering of what his plans for this section are and they are for the most part in hearty accord with his policy. Unlike Harriman, he is not reaching out for an empire in railroads, but what he does want is to make his road one of the strongest and best paying railroad propositions in the country, and to build up New England as the greatest commercial section and manufacturing section of the country, for in this lies the prosperity of his road.

He was born in Lowell in 1851, began his railroad career in 1869 as cashier's clerk in the office of the Northern New Hampshire railroad. He graduated to the Central Vermont in 1872 as clerk to the chief engineer. Then he went back to the Northern New Hampshire as superintendent's clerk and assistant treasurer in 1873. In 1880 he became assistant to the manager of the Boston & Lowell road and then auditor then general superintendent of the Boston & Lowell & Concord roads. He became general purchasing agent, later assistant general manager and finally traffic manager of the Union Pacific, from 1888 to 1892. He became assistant and then first general manager of the New England & New York in 1892 and then was made second vice-president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road. From there he went to the Northern Pacific. Finally came back to the old stamping grounds, New England.

THE 1909 MODEL UNITED STATES Cream Separator

bowls are greatly reduced in diameter and prove by their clean skimming records, durability and the superior excellence of their work, the correctness of the principles upon which they are built and the perfection of material and workmanship which produce them.

You can buy a separator for less money than the United States—that every dairyman knows. But consider this: When a U. S. is bought and paid for, it is paid for.

A cheap machine is never paid for. Every cent expended for repairs must be added to the original cost—it's an endless system of instalments. These instalments, added to the first cost of the machine, soon exceed the cost of the U. S., and after each successive repair, (if you can get another part) the cheap machine grows more and more second-hand—one step nearer the junk heap.

The loss of cream, cost of repairs, time lost, the trouble and worry outweigh many times over the difference in cost between the "cheap" separator and the clean, skimming, Reliable, Substantial United States Cream Separator.

Examine the U. S. yourself and see its good points.

CARLE'S CANDIDACY
 In the selection of Wilbur Carle as their candidate for Mayor the republicans of Janesville have placed in nomination a man who, if elected, will give the city a good, clean, business administration. Mr. Carle's integrity has never been doubted. His long business experience particularly fits him for the office he seeks. Janesville needs a businessman at the head of its civic affairs—a man of standing in the community, a man who is not affiliated with any interests that might detract from his work as Mayor, and a man who is not dominated by one man or one element of society. Mr. Carle meets these requirements admirably. Not only that, but he also would take with him into the Mayor's chair the experience of long years of business life in Janesville in which he has learned the needs of the city and knows how they should be attended to. Mr. Carle is a life-long republican, a man of sterling character, whose word is his bond and the voters of Janesville can do no better than elect him to the office he seeks, confident that he will wisely and safely administer the office he seeks.

STATE SUPERINTENDENCY
 There is to be elected this spring a state superintendent of public instruction to succeed the present incumbent in office—Mr. Cary, who has held the office for several years past. While the Gazette can not endorse any of the candidates seeking the office, from personal observation it feels its duty bound to inform the voters of the county that the sentiment of the educators, the men closest in touch with the situation in this immediate vicinity, favor the candidacy of Mr. Wood. Mr. Wood has many friends in the county where he has come in contact with the teachers and school superintendents and they heartily endorse his candidacy. He served for many years as superintendent of rural schools and is in touch with their needs throughout the state. Such men as Professor Duell, Charles Homingway and O. D. Antisdell, who know him personally, are supporting him and in this matter it is safe to follow their judgment in the matter.

THE SECOND WARD
 What Janesville needs in the common council are men of strength of purpose, men of stability of character and men who can be trusted. An alderman should be a man whose business does not conflict with the laws and ordinances of the city—a man whose business affiliations would not warp his judgment when matters of vital importance to the whole city come before the council for careful consideration. These men are needed as aldermen and the republicans of the Second ward have nominated just such a man in James W. Scott. The taxpayers of the ward should see that Mr. Scott is elected on Tuesday next. He will carefully guard their interests and make such a representation of their needs that they will receive immediate attention.

O. D. ANTISDELL
 With the combining of the two school districts of the county into one and the election of a superintendent coming at the spring election it would be well for the voters of the county to name a man who has had experience in the work rather than one who has not. Mr. O. D. Antisdell has been superintendent of the southern half of the county and now seeks to become the superintendent of the combined districts. He is well fitted for the work and should receive the hearty support of all persons interested in the schools of the county and their value to the community.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE
 The state senate has passed the Stout measure which gives to women the equal right of suffrage with men. It is an important step in legislation and one whose fate in the assembly will be watched with interest. The right of women to vote on all questions have long been debated in the legislative halls. It has been tried in some states successfully and in others with an opposite result. It is a move forward, a stride into the future, which is startling to contemplate. The passage of the measure by the senate was not unexpected and its fate in the assembly is problematical.

Edward H. Peterson is going to run for alderman in the Fifth ward despite the fact the republican city committee failed to place his name upon the republican ballot. If it is possible to elect him the Fifth ward would be assured an alderman who would be fearless in the discharge of his duties and not a member of any clique or faction. It would be a good thing for the city as a whole.

The plan for a gigantic capital park at Madison appears to have vanished and the old Capitol square will have to serve for the handsome new structure that is being constructed. However, time will show the fate of this move and men will regret the move some day when the state has grown bigger and wiser.

Now the members of the legislature want the property owners in Madison to stop using soft coal so that the handsome new capitol building will not be defaced by soot and black streaks. It might be a good thing if citizens of Janesville made a similar request upon businessmen of Janesville.

This question of a milk ordinance can not be dodged by the members of the council much longer. The fathers and mothers of the city have something to say regarding the matter and the babies of today want recognition in this matter and should have it.

The state board of agriculture want everything in sight and then they elect as their secretary a man who last fall stated openly that he was opposed to Taft. A republican board appointed by a republican Governor, with a renegade republican secretary.

Much can be said in favor of many candidates that come up for election this spring, but nothing but fulsome praise can be mentioned when Dr. J. E. Pegaher's name is mentioned in connection with the fourth ward candidacy for alderman on the republican ticket.

Some way or other it does look as though some of those aldermen wanted to put off voting on the question of taking away those saloon licenses until after election day.

There are many measures before the state legislature for consideration that will keep that august body working overtime until June 1st to finish up.

Speaker Joe Cannon recognized the democratic insurgents who stood by him with choice committee appointments, but thus far we have not heard of any of the Wisconsin insurgents who fought him being given any plums.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, D. D.
 If instead of going off to Africa to hunt lions Theodore Roosevelt would go into the pulpit he would make a great preacher.

In his mental makeup Roosevelt is more the preacher than the politician. He has insisted, in season and out of season, that the main thing is the moral health of the people. And that is the preacher of it.

The politician studies questions from an economic standpoint. Material prosperity is his solution of human happiness. Make the people prosperous and civilization will proceed. If there is any ill, pass a law and cure it.

The preacher is the better philosopher. The preacher sees that good citizenship is more important than legal enactment. It matters not so much what the laws may be as what the people may be.

A great deal of fun has been poked at Roosevelt's "preaching." But he sees, better than most politicians, that laws do not make a people; that a people make the laws. The government does not make the people; the people make the government. The people ARE the government.

And this distinction is fundamental. The structure of popular government is not that of a so-called "state" where privilege is handed to the citizen. It is that of a commonwealth in which all the powers of government are given to it by the citizen.

And so—The question of a people's well being is not so much a matter of law. It is not entirely a question of the form of government.

"Democracy?" you say. Is it treason to suggest, for instance, that the people of Germany under an imperial government are better off in every way than the people of Venezuela under a republican form of government?

Nobody wants to change the form of government. That is not the question. But—The moral health of the people is the great concern. If you don't believe it read Ortolan or Fallout. Roosevelt is right. We do not need more politics so much as we need more preaching.

To Keep Shoes Laced Tied.
 A way to keep the shoe laces tied is to make a bow in the ordinary way, then insert a button hook underneath the center of the bow and draw one loop and one end through (underneath), thus turning the bow practically upside down. Or draw one loop through the other and pull the "unswerving" end, so that the loops are knotted.

Cynicism.
 Cynicism is the ideal overturned. It is the parody of physical and moral beauty. It is the crime of the mind. It is the brutalizing of imagination.—Lamartine.

With Little Study and Good Judgment it is an Easy Matter For Almost Any Person to Arrange Their Grounds in an Attractive Manner. We will help you

There are two kinds of landscape gardening—the natural and the formal. The natural consists of rearranging existing natural forms with a desire to create new beauties—to combine flowers, shrubs, trees, so as to produce a beautiful effect.

The formal is just the opposite as to form of arrangement, being as its name indicates, "formal," with boundaries and the principal features laid out along straight lines.

The services of our landscaping department is at your command. We prepare plans for every form of garden and grounds, through the medium of sketches. If you will make your wants known to us by sending a rough drawing or ask us to call and look over your grounds, we will gladly tell you the approximate cost. We are prepared to take entire charge of the work from beginning to its completion, and at a comparatively small cost can beautify the most common-place home. The first cost is practically the only cost and the result remains pleasing for generations.

An Explanation.
 One reason why women suppose the men are fooled by artificial beauty is that most of the men are too gallant not to pretend that they don't know the difference.

Dental Experience

Am continuing to have a great demand for artificial teeth.

Have lately successfully fitted some of the most difficult mouths it has ever been my lot to see.

Flat mouths, badly absorbed, hopeless looking.

But I have satisfied the patients.

Have always been able to get good results in fitting new teeth.

If your teeth are an annoyance to you, just let me have a try, and if my new ones are not far better than what you now have,

DENIED A PLACE ON REPUBLICAN TICKET

E. H. Peterson Has Decided to Run for Alderman in the Fifth Ward as an Independent Candidate.

E. H. Peterson will be republican candidate for alderman in the Fifth ward, but those who wish to cast their ballots for him will have to press down a pointer in the independent row of the voting machine. Mr. Peterson was given to understand by the republican city committee, of which he is a member, that his name would be placed on the republican ticket to fill the vacancy caused by the failure of J. J. Dulin, the democratic candidate, to qualify. Today, however, he was informed that the committee had decided not to appoint him or any other republican to fill the said vacancy for fear that Mr. Carle's campaign for mayor might be injured thereby. "I am heartily in sympathy with Mr. Carle's campaign, but I do not believe that any such question of expediency exists," declares Mr. Peterson. "Having lived in the ward for the greater part of my life and having been for some years actively identified with the republican organization there, the idea of republicans sitting down and letting a possible contest go by default does not appeal to me. Alderman J. J. Dulin and the other democratic leaders there should be compelled to stay in their own ranks and should not be allowed to detract to the republican city committee what vacancies shall not be filled."

"Having been denied a place on the republican ticket, I am going to do the next best thing and run under independent colors. My papers are being circulated today. If I fail to get the normal republican vote there, I will at least have the satisfaction of having made some effort to keep the organization intact."

WILLIAM HILLER HELD FOR TRIAL

At the Conclusion of the Examination This Morning—Hanson Declares He Lost 12 Chickens.

Officer William Mason, Turnkey Floyd Drafahl, and others testified this morning during the progress of the examination of William Hiller, who is charged with being implicated with George W. Hildwell in the theft of silverware, clothing, harness, and various other property from John Hanson on Sunday evening, March 21. Hanson, himself, was also recalled to the stand. Evidence was submitted which tended to show that a knife and a bottle of perfume belonging to Hanson were found on Hiller's person the night of the arrest.

Hanson Forgot Something.

Mr. Hanson offered additional testimony to the effect that twelve chickens belonging to him disappeared the same evening the other property was stolen. In view of this new development the prosecution now entertains a theory that the poultry was "planted" somewhere and not brought to town until last Thursday night. While the hearing was in progress and another witness was on the stand Mr. Hanson suddenly recollected that he had left his pocket-book and his money at home and had not even taken the precaution of placing them under lock and key, and confided the fact in tones of terror to Chief Appleby. The Chief persuaded the court to excuse him and when he presently returned an air of great relief had transfigured his ordinary expression of preoccupation, disengagement, and abstraction.

Held for Trial

When the State had closed its testimony, Attorney Charles Pierce, counsel for the defendant, moved that the prisoner be discharged and asked Judge Fildes if he cared to have any arguments. The court said that the evidence was well in mind and that no arguments would be necessary. It was his finding that an offense had been committed and that there was reasonable and probable cause to believe the defendant guilty. He, therefore, fixed the bail at $1,000 and directed that information against Hiller be filed on Monday, April 5, at which time a date will be set for the trial. Hildwell's hearing is set for Saturday morning.

YOUTHS OF TODAY ARE WELL PREPARED

Was Decision of Members of Civics Club in Debate at Regular Meeting Last Evening.

That the young men of today are as well equipped for the battles of life as the youth of fifty years ago were was the decision of the Civics Club at their monthly banquet held in the parlors of the Baptist church last evening. The discussion took the form of a debate, "Resolved, That the young man of today is not as well equipped to meet the problems of life, as the young man of fifty years ago." Edward Wray, Fred Searell and A. C. Campbell, who acted as judges, decided in favor of the negative. The principal points brought out by the speakers were that the conditions are now and those which prevailed fifty years ago are entirely different; the demand of the age is for younger men and there are more young men filling responsible positions than there were a half century ago, which demonstrates their ability. To down these arguments their opponents said that the conditions for developing a young man into the best that he could make of himself were not as good today as fifty years ago. Profligate living has a tendency to make young men lazy and incompetent. The business men of today are graduates from the school of hardship; receding their training fifty years ago. For the affirmative the speakers were William Lane, Roy Curber and Roy Miller. The negative was defended by E. M. Strass, J. C. Hazen and Matilda Palmer. The meeting in April will be "Ladies' Night."

MRS. SARAH L. NASH DIED THIS MORNING

Widow of the Late Jonathan Nash Passed Away at Home of Her Daughter in Chicago.

Mrs. Sarah L. Nash, widow of the late Jonathan W. Nash, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. Behrendt, in Chicago on Wednesday morning, March 31st. For several months Mrs. Nash has been in Chicago, where three of her daughters make their home, but previous to removing there she had resided in Janesville and vicinity since her husband and herself came here in 1860. During the past two years she has been a comparative invalid, tenderly cared for, especially by her youngest daughter, Helen.

Mrs. Nash was born in New York state April 14th, 1822, and was married at Oak Grove, Wisconsin, Oct. 15th, 1850. Six children survive her—Mrs. Howard W. Lee, James W. Nash, Wallace W. Nash, Frank E. Behrendt, Miss Sybil A. and Miss Helen C. Nash. For many years she and her husband were loyal and faithful members of the Congregational church. Her long residence here, her kindness of heart and sweetness of disposition made her friends especially fond of her and formed deep and lasting attachments in a circle of neighbors, some of whom have preceded her into the life beyond.

Mrs. Nash's especial place of influence was in her home, where her care and love were unflinching as wife and mother and her interest in the best things for her children constant. She was naturally of a sweet and cheerful mind and this happy quality had been characteristic of her during the last illness and until the end. The funeral, which will be held from the family home on W. Hurl street and will be private.

Now Battleships Age

U.S. Scout Cruiser "Chester"
The Fastest Vessel
in the Navy

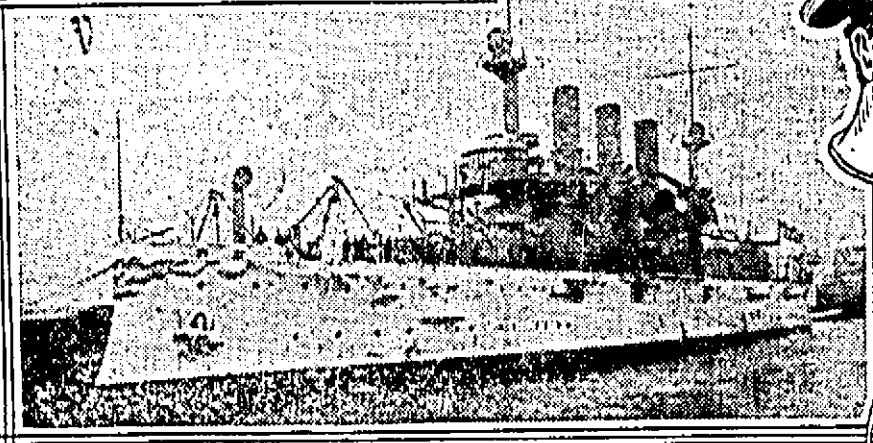

Crew of the Battleship
New Hampshire on the Forward Deck

Of all the greatest problems that confront the experts of our Navy is the rapidly with which the modern ships of war age, for try as they may, the constructors cannot prevent the present-day battleships from becoming back numbers in a few short years. The average period during which armored ships are considered fit for service ranges from between four to six years, while any vessel over that age is generally held up as an object lesson of what a great sea fighter of the present day ought not to be.

Take the battleship Massachusetts and New Hampshire for instance; these illustrate how short a period a modern battleship makes as a first-class sea fighter. Ten years ago the Massachusetts was one of the largest and most powerful warships in the world, and it was claimed that she could sink, in less than an hour, the best vessel flying the flag of this or any other nation. Today this famous vessel is a back number and would be very picking for gun of the battleships now in commission in the American Navy.

In striking contrast to the Massachusetts is the battleship New Hampshire, the newest addition to Uncle Sam's fleet and considered by experts to be as powerful a war vessel as can be found in the world. No technical knowledge is needed to convince even the layman that a difference in the hands of those who direct the movements of the modern leviathan. Experts say that the Massachusetts would sink in the storm of an onslaught by the New Hampshire as quickly as she would have had other vessels at her mercy 10 years ago.

A few weeks ago the North Dakota was launched, and when this giant battleship is finished and placed in commission the United States will have, for the first time in her history, a battleship that can truthfully be called the queen of the seas, she will be four thousand tons heavier than any vessel now in the American Navy, and will have twice the tonnage of the first-class battleships of 10 years ago. The gun power on the North Dakota will be more destructive, the speed will be greater and the armor will be twice as impregnable as was the case when the Massachusetts reigned supreme.

of Our Battleships

Man's ingenuity and his increasing striving for perfection—his utter unwillingness to leave well enough alone—is at the bottom of the short life of the fighting ships. As soon as a warship is completed some fault is discovered in her construction and in the design of the next ship the defect is remedied. This applies equally to the engines and boilers, the guns, the armor plate and the interior mechanism. New inventions are being made right along and every day brings forth something new that holds out hope of increasing the efficiency of vessels.

Battleships are not the only class of vessels that age rapidly. The armored cruisers and gunboats show what is called "rustiness" after six years or thereabouts are constructed. The cruiser Brooklyn, once called the peer of any vessel of her class, is now out of commission and so far outmoded by the changes of today that she is just now about the equal of the protected cruisers of the same age. A ship of her tonnage in the armored cruiser class was then considered a monster, as she had a displacement of 6,000 tons, and the displacement of those days were only 1,000 tons heavier.

Nowadays the armored cruisers are nearly 5,000 tons heavier than the vessels of the same class a decade ago, which, alongside of them, appear like phantoms in point of size. More than that, they even make the battleships of those days look insignificant. The latest of the speedy monsters added to the navy is the Washington, with the gigantic displacement of 13,500 tons, and bigger in every way than the flagship of Rear Admiral Winfield S. Schley during the battle of Santiago. The builders of this mammoth structure of steel claim that the Washington is the most powerful vessel of her class in the American Navy and the equal of any ship of war that a foreign navy can boast of in the armored cruiser class.

The little torpedo boats of the Navy are the only vessels that do not seem to grow "out of style," no matter how long they have been in use. Of course, they are being built larger all the time, but the smaller craft, like the Albatross, which has a displacement of 41 tons, are considered just as powerful as the modern Worden, which is nearly eleven times the size in displacement tons. The Navy Department expects much of these little fighters that constitute the "monopoly fleet."

The manner in which they are looked after, the extreme care taken never to let any part of them get out of order amounts almost to pampering. And, like all spoiled children, there are times when they behave abominably bad.

Swiftness and the ability to carry more and heavier guns are the main features of the latest models in the big battleship class. Ten years ago the main battery of the battleships consisted of four 12-inch guns, two 10-inch turret guns and two 6-inch guns. After a short time it was discovered that 12-inch guns would be more preferable, and when the battleship

Iowa was built they were installed in her as an experiment. The new guns worked so well that it was decided, after a conference, to have all the future battleships carry 12-inch guns. For many years no effort was made to increase the number of turrets on any one vessel, but on the newest ships the number of guns of the 12-inch variety has been raised to at least 16.

On the old vessels the four large guns could only be discharged to port and starboard at one time, while two of the guns could only be fired from or at the same moment. On the new Dreadnoughts the turrets are so distributed that five times the number of guns will be fired at the enemy fore and aft, while the array of guns that can be discharged to port and starboard is expected to pour forth a veritable shower of huge projectiles. The number of torpedo tubes in the new monsters has also been increased, and instead of the single one carried by the big ships of the past, the times. In the machine shops in the Navy Yard they know of cases where new and costly inventions were installed only to prove absolute failures. But that doesn't mean that the constructors went back to the old and approved methods. They had been condemned beforehand, simply because they were old. What they did do was to rack their brains, spend sleepless nights and nerve-racking days of toil, but the result was something new that did work.

And for the time being it was the greatest improvement known—until a greater one came along. As important a factor as any in the construction of a warship is the armor. On the ships of today the belt is from nine to twelve inches in thickness and is as impregnable as man can create it. The armor on the present day ships is a great improvement over that installed on the first of the ironclads, and its resisting power is easily 10 times greater than it was before the modern Harvey steel nickel steel was invented. Armor plate has perhaps raised more ructions in the Navy Department than anything else connected with the construction of our fighting vessels. To begin with there is the tariff—then there is "gravy" and if the country had a new battleship for every time the charge had been made that rotten armor was accepted, our Navy would outnumber Great Britain's ships two to one. Still, things are better now than they were ever before in this respect, for Uncle Sam has been a quick learner in many cases in the past when he found himself cheated, and today the instances of defective plate are few and far.

Probably the greatest place in the world to see how all the parts of a ship are made and assembled is the Brooklyn Navy Yard, the biggest in the country and second in size to none in the world. There visitors can see men at work on every part of a vessel in course of construction, as well as at the task of renovating ships of older vintage that must be completely altered to be brought up to the efficiency of the vessels of modern times. At this Navy Yard the ill-fated battleship Maine, one of the first vessels built for the White Squadron was constructed, and in a short time the Florida, which will supersede the North Dakota as queen of the Navy, will be under way.

Woman Prevents Lynching of Missouri Marshal's Assassins.

Chillicothe, Mo., Mar. 31.—Only for the intervention of Mrs. James Wood, wife of a farmer living south of Janesport, the two men accused of shooting and mortally wounding Marshal Caraway at Janesport Monday, would have been lynched in the front yard of the Wood home; where they had been surrounded and wounded by a posse of farmers. A rope had been procured and the farmers who composed the posse were in the act of strapping up their prisoners when Mrs. Wood interfered.

She pleaded with the leader of the posse to permit the law to take its course, and her plea prevented the lynching. The men were taken to the jail at Gallatin, Mo., the county seat of Daviess county.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND SOME OF THE ANIMALS HE WILL BE ALLOWED TO KILL AND CAPTURE IN AFRICA.

New York March 23.—Today the only living ex-president of the United States leaves for his fabled African hunting trip. The strenuous president, who, for seven years, has held almost supreme power over the destinies of 80,000,000 people, will now, in doubt, be equally strenuous in his recreation as in the White House. In Africa, however, there is a limit set, beyond which he cannot go. Sixty different animals in all he can kill. Already his license has been taken out, at a cost of $250.

Among the animals he may kill are included two elephants (male only), two rhinoceroses, two hippopotamuses, two zebras (except the mountain variety), two cheetahs, two male ostriches, two each of the large species of antelope and gazelle, and 10 each of the smaller species, 10 each species of wild pig and 10 of the smaller cats and jackals.

The expense of the trip will be very great, but should Mr. Roosevelt so desire he can defray every item of it with the trophies of his hunt. The sportsman who is so fortunate as to secure a white rhinoceros may dispose of it for a small fortune. Full or half grown animals delivered alive at the Uganda railway will bring a varying price of from $100 to $300.

Mr. Roosevelt will not be restricted in the number of lions, leopards and crocodiles he may shoot, but the wild ass, the secretary bird, stork or okapi are by law made safe from his gun. It is roughly estimated that the trip will cost the ex-president about $20,000.

Chicago.—The most important matrimonial development of the present season in Chicago came this week, when the sister-in-law of Chicago's mayor escaped from a convent and eloped with a young friend whom she first met a few months ago. Miss Emily Lee is the name of the sweet young girl. Mayor Hanna is the brother-in-law in the case who objected to the match and contributed to the necessity for an elopement. George V. Muller is the happy groom.

Miss Lee escaped from St. Mary's college at Rock Island. It was such an escape as they write about in novels. It took place on a dark night. There was the scaling of the convent walls by means of a rope ladder. There was the bold young lover waiting to receive with outstretched arms the idol of his dreams. Then came the hasty flight to Gary, Ind. Then the marriage ceremony was performed. Then came telegrams to parents and to brother-in-law, asking their forgiveness. Replies followed, inviting the pair to come home. They came and were forgiven. Now they are living happily in a little home on Sheffield avenue. Such is life.

TARIFF DEBATE
HOT YESTERDAY

Talk in House Waxing Warm at Times.

DISCUSS OIL AND LUMBER

Taft Fears Delay and Summons Leaders to Conference—"Joker" Which Cost Tobacco Consumers $45,000,000 Found in Old Law.

Washington, Mar. 31.—A revival of the discussion of the oil and lumber schedules in the Payne tariff bill yesterday caused the debate on the measure to wax warm, after it had lagged in interest earlier in the day.

To Mr. Vreeland of New York was accorded the privilege of explaining the position of the independent refiners, who want the countervailing duty on crude petroleum retained.

Kitchen Pleads for Free Lumber.
 Mr. Kitchen of North Carolina, in an exhaustive treatise of the question, pleaded for the placing of lumber on the free list. He got into frequent colloquies during his three and a half hours' talk, with both Republicans and Democrats. Others who spoke were Messrs. Cox of Ohio, Sterling of Illinois, Hughes of Georgia, Bates of Pennsylvania, Parker of New Jersey, and Richardson of Alabama.

At the night session Mr. Borah of Missouri was the first speaker.

Costly Tobacco "Joker" Discovered.
 What is designated as a "joker" that cost the consumers of tobacco in this country nearly $45,000,000 was found in the existing revenue laws by Representative Dawson of Iowa, who at once introduced a bill to correct the error.

Under the Dingley tariff law the two-ounce packages of tobacco sold to the consumer at five cents each and the four-ounce packages for ten cents. In 1898 a war revenue tax of six cents a pound additional was levied on tobacco. At the same time, in order to save the convenience of the trade, authorization was given for the reduction of the sizes of packages from two, three and four ounces to 1 2/3, 2 1/2 and 3 1/3 ounces, thus enabling the smoker to procure a five-cent and a ten-cent package of tobacco "at the store."

In due time the war revenue tax was repealed. Somebody forgot, Mr. Dawson believes, to restore the packages of tobacco to the original sizes, and hence, ever since 1902 the consumer of tobacco has been paying the equivalent of the war revenue tax to the manufacturers of tobacco.

Taft Talks with Leaders.
 There is imminent danger that the Payne bill may be seriously delayed in its consideration by the house, President Taft was in conference with Speaker Cannon, Representative Payne of New York, the floor leader, and Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania.

It is understood that the house leaders impressed the chief executive with the unfavorable situation regarding the tariff bill and the difficulty being experienced in getting the Republican members in line to vote for a rule which would expedite the passage of the measure. It is conceded by several Republican leaders that it would be impossible to pass a rule restricting amendments to the bill until some time next week, and then only by granting the demands made by a number of members that certain important schedules be open to amendment.

Speaker Cannon held a conference with other members of the Illinois delegation in the house. The consensus of opinion was that a caucus should be held to determine the action that should be taken regarding a rule.

Iowa and Michigan Meetings.
 The Iowa delegation met and decided in favor of having the ways and means committee report amendments which would put tea on the free list and take off the countervailing duty on coffee. The Republican members from Michigan are also in favor of having the countervailing duty on coffee and the duty of eight cents on tea stricken out of the Payne bill.

Recognizing that Brazil is powerless to suspend her export tax on coffee because for the next several years at least this tax is indelibly linked with her foreign debt, the senate committee on finance has decided to strike out of the Payne bill the countervailing duty proposed.

PONCE DE LEON LANDS
AGAIN IN ST. AUGUSTINE

Anniversary of Arrival of the Spanish and Founding of Florida City Celebrated.

St. Augustine, Fla., Mar. 31.—Celebrations of the arrival of the Spanish, the founding of the city of St. Augustine and the change of flags, began here today with the landing of Ponce de Leon. Thousands of northerners joined in the festivities.

Today was devoted to the exercises and ceremonies connected with the landing of Ponce de Leon. He arrived on a caravel, accompanied by a throng of Spanish grandees, knights, soldiers and priests, and landed at the entrance to the old fort. There he was met by several hundred Indians led by chiefs and braves in full costume. The Spaniards, as they came ashore, knelt and blessed the land and offered thanks for the success of their voyage. A procession headed by Ponce de Leon was then formed and marched through the city. This evening a Ponce de Leon reception and Spanish ball will be given.

Tomorrow comes the celebration of the founding of the city of St. Augustine by Menéndez. The Indian Caciques will be seen in council when Indian runners enter and announce the arrival of Menéndez. Then will come upon the scene Menéndez and his armed forces, bringing with them several Indian prisoners. A grand parade follows and the pipe of peace is smoked. Then comes a parade through the city, participated in by Spaniards, Indians, English soldiers, French soldiers and American troops. In the evening the Indians will present scenes in the history of Florida.

On the third day the ceremonies will be devoted to depicting the various changes of flags that have taken place during the history of St. Augustine. Military organizations representing the various nationalities that have ruled the city will participate. The flags of Spain, France and England will in turn float over the city. These will all give way at last to the Star Spangled Banner. The United States government will be represented by two companies of coast artillery and a military band, Florida by a battalion of state troops and the regimental band and the Kentucky military institute by cadets and a band.

A pyrotechnic display will be one of the features of the third evening. Then will come the attack on old Fort Marion by the combined forces of the Indians, Spanish, French and English, and the defense of the fort by the American troops. This will be followed by an illuminated launch and power boat parade.

New York Newsboys Among First to Cross the Structure.

New York, Mar. 31.—The new Queensborough bridge, connecting New York and Long Island City, was formally opened to pedestrians and vehicles yesterday. Thousands of persons and a long procession of automobiles gathered at either end of the bridge, all anxious to be the first over after Mayor George H. McClellan, accompanied by several of the city officials, had crossed the 7,740-foot roadway in an automobile.

A crowd of newsboys beat everyone but the mayor by running from Manhattan to Queensborough as fast as they could sprint.

THEATRE

The Osculating Musical Comedy
 One of the many hits in "The Runaways," which plays here next Friday night, is the song "A Kiss for Each Day in the Week," which is rendered by the clever comedian, George Ovey, assisted by six of the most beautiful show girls ever seen on the stage of the New York Casino, where the piece ran for seven solid months. There is a violent contrast in sizes. Ovey is about five feet three, and each of the girls stands nearly six feet in their stockings, but one who is even taller. The ball gowns worn in this number, accentuate the stature of the women and visions of what the fair sex is pleased to term "loveliness" and "cuddliness."

"The Runaways" is a delightful musical comedy, filled with brilliant dialogue, odd situations, charming melodies, the work of the composer of the hour, Raymond Hubbell, who wrote the music for "Mexicans," "A Knight for a Day," "Fantasia," "Low Fields," "Girl Behind the Counter," and the new Chicago success, "The Girl at the Helm." The book is by Addison Hurkett, author of "The Music World," now running at the Casino. "The Runaways" will be presented at Myers theatre Friday evening, April 2.

Most 5-Cent Cigars

can be bought 6 or 7, and sometimes 8 for a quarter.

This means that when smokers pay 5 cents for such cigars they get between 3 and 4 cents' worth.

CONTRACT 5-cent straight cigar gives you full value for your nickel.

Its best recommendation is that it must be retailed at 5-cents straight—to get a fair profit.

It's a better cigar at the same price.

It costs makers and dealers more.

Smokers get the benefit.

THE

MONTHS

The Gazette carried an increasing volume of advertising.

In spite of the depression, the amount of business and the results therefrom have far exceeded all expectations.

Why? Because advertising in The Gazette is more open, more honest, more criticised, more followed, than ever before.

Advertising thrives on light, and is getting it. Advertising automatically advertises itself—and grows.

This remarkable growth—the success of advertising—is merely publicity coming to its own.

Our advertising department will be glad to give you any assistance in developing a plan that will be adapted to your business and its field.

The rates for display advertising based on our annual contract are as follows:

100 inches, 20c per inch.
 300 inches, 18c per inch.
 500 inches, 15c per inch.
 1000 inches, 12 1/2c per inch.

TRIMNESS IN CLOTHES

Have you ever heard an old sea dog describe his favorite ship? He will tell you she's the trimmest craft that rides the waves.

And it's the same trimness in clothes that counts. The grace, symmetry and perfect fit that comes from artistic draping and scientific cutting are what make style and satisfaction.

His Fatal Sneeze.
The fishery guard Ganno, master of the patrol launch Chautauque, which protects the fishing at the mouth of the Loire, was drowned off Palm-beauf. Rising from his bed he went on deck after midnight in his night attire, and the cold brought on a sneezing fit which caused him to slip on the ice-covered deck and into the water. The engineer, awakened by the noise, tried to rescue him, but in vain.—Pitt Parisien.

Custom of 700 Years.
The quaint Shrove-tide custom of kicking a football through the public thoroughfare was observed in the market town of Atherstone, the old headquarters of the hatching industry of Warwickshire, recently. For more than 700 years the practice has been religiously observed. Documents exist to prove the origin of the custom on Shrove Tuesday in the year 1200.—London Standard.

The Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet

Your great grandmother's kitchen differed as much from the kitchen of today as the stage coach differs from an engine. Her supplies were kept on hanging shelves in the cellar, down whose narrow steps she went several times to prepare a meal.

Today the HOOSIER CABINET has taken the place, not only of the old-fashioned hanging shelves, but the modern kitchen as well.

There is as much need for a system in the kitchen as in the office or factory. By having a HOOSIER CABINET you save time, steps and health; when preparing a meal YOU STAND IN ONE PLACE, EVERYTHING IS WITHIN REACH and your kitchen is neat and clean.

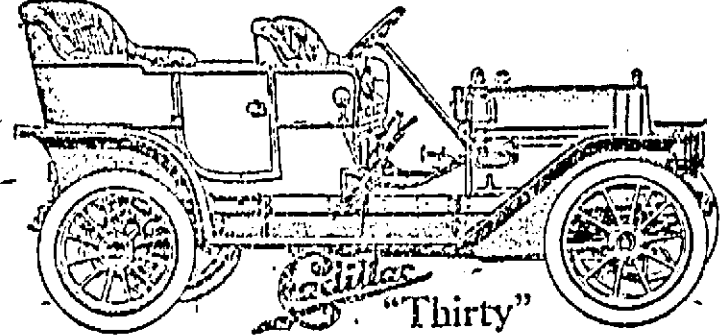

See the display in our window and then call and let us prove these arguments.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

NEW CORSET CLASP

Keeps Steels From Pressing Uncomfortably Against Wearers.

An invention of interest to women is the new corset clasp here shown, which is designed to add to the comfort of the user. Three clasps are arranged on the corset, each being slightly offset from the center, and the weight of the corset is thus distributed evenly to the top of the corset, and because of this outward inclination the steel causes pressure against the wearers. In some makes of corsets the fault of inward pressure is so pronounced that it causes real suffering and the effect is sometimes serious. It frequently happens that corsets, after they have been worn only slightly, develop this fault and have to be discarded. In this new design, on the left hand clasp on the inner edge, near the top, is a little tongue or clip, that acts as a locking means and prevents the clasp, when hooked, from coming unfastened, which is another annoying feature of many of the old style clasps.

CUTS HAIR QUICKLY

Safety Razor Device Has Been Put to New Uses.

Nothing the wonderful demand for safety razors. It occurred to a Washington man that the same principle might be applied to a device for cutting hair. He has accordingly turned out an instrument which will cut a man's hair in a few minutes and do the job neatly. This device looks very much like some styles of safety razors—in fact, that is what it really is, but it has been adapted to a new use. It consists of an ordinary razor with a guard. The guard is a toothed plate which is fastened to the blade by spring clips, and can be adjusted to different points, according to the length which it is desired to cut the hair. The instrument is passed over the head like a comb and the hair passes through the teeth and is shorn on the sharp edge of the razor. While it would be impossible to give a fancy haircut with this instrument, in ordinary cases it will be found to work like a charm and the amount of time it saves is astonishing.

WORK DONE UNIFORMLY.

DESIGNING MACHINE

Makes All Sorts of Curves by Means of Turning Crank.

It is no longer necessary to have a set of assorted instruments in order to draw designs. Two Massachusetts men have put their heads together and invented a machine which will make all sorts of curves by the mere turning of a crank. This machine consists of a flat surface with a ridge piece at one end and two discs, set one behind the other, along the disc furthest from the ridge piece is a groove, in which is set an upright with a crank. Along the ridge piece moves a pin and crank and pin connect with a stylus, which moves over the disc beneath them. By setting the crank and the pin at different points in their respective paths, and turning the crank, the stylus will trace on the disc beneath it, or on paper or cloth placed on that disc, all sorts of curves, according to the position of end pieces. This method of designing is not only more accurate than that requiring separate instruments, but is more rapid.

NEW KIND OF SWING

Affords New and Pleasurable Sensation for Children.

An Indiana man has invented a swing which will afford the children a new and pleasurable sensation. This swing travels on a wire which is stretched out between two points or trees and it can be made to "zoom" through the air at a great rate, though it is also provided with a brake that it may be stopped quickly. It consists of a seat suspended from two ropes, which lead up to a hook or support containing two wheels. The ropes run over the wheels and the wheels are controlled by two cords, which hang where the operator can reach them as he or she sits in the swing. By pulling these cords the wheels can be made to turn in either direction and the swing runs along through the air at any speed desired. There is still a third cord leading from the box in which the wheels are housed which controls the brake, making the plaything a safe one, in spite of its exhilarating possibilities.

POLICE SHOOT A WOMAN.

Wounded as She Tries to Get Black-mall Money.

Washington, Ind., Mar. 31.—Lying on a cot in the Daviess county jail, Mrs. Zella Stringer, the woman who was shot Monday night in an effort by the police to capture the persons who had written a letter to N. C. Road, president of the Washington National bank, demanding that $30,000 be placed in a box by the gate of the public school building, is making a game fight for her life, as well as her liberty.

She declares she was induced by a stranger on an offer of a large amount of money to get the box and bring it to him some three squares from the place where it had been placed. This story, however, is not believed by the authorities, and a charge of blackmail was placed against her at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. James Sparks, a grocer, who has been keeping company with Mrs. Stringer for several months, has been arrested as an accomplice.

Let Me Tell You Something

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is to blame for her own wretched condition.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what these women say:

Camden, N. J.—"It is with pleasure that I send my testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, hoping it may induce other suffering women to avail themselves of the benefit of this valuable remedy."

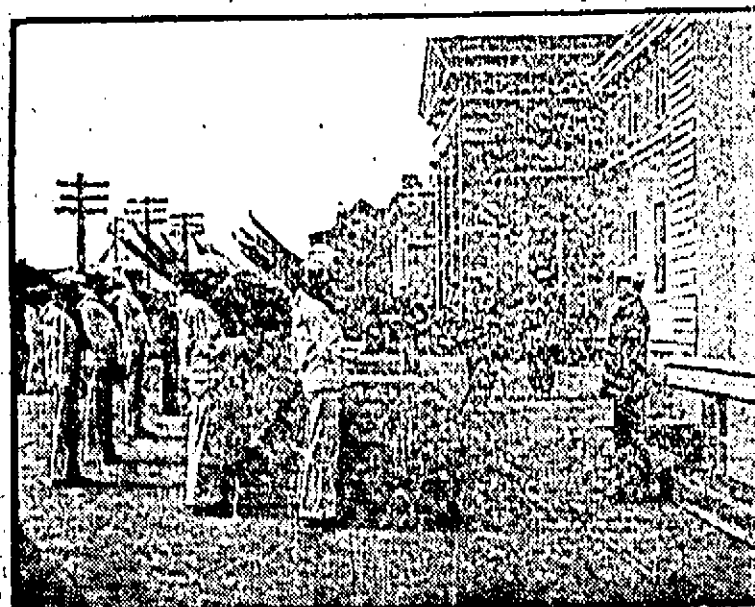

"I suffered from pain in my back and side, sick headaches, no appetite, was tired and nervous all the time, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman—and this valuable medicine shall always have my praise."—Mrs. W. P. Valentino, 902 Lincoln Ave., Camden, N. J.

Eric, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles, and at last was almost helpless. I tried three doctors but they did me no good. My sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has made me well and strong. I hope all suffering women will just give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, for it is worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. Endlich, R. 1, D. 7, Erie, Pa.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, it is not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

NAVAL CADETS TRAINING NEW NAVAL TRAINING STATIONS

By WALDON FAWCETT.

With the completion of Uncle Sam's new naval training stations, near Chicago and in the vicinity of San Diego, Cal., the United States government will be vastly better equipped than ever before for training and drilling enlisted seamen for service on our fighting ships. Several million dollars are being expended on the station near Chicago, which is designed as a preparatory institution for the young men recruited in the Great Lakes district and who will be expended on the new school on San Diego bay, where they will be trained for the nation's cruising warships.

These new naval training stations will be like in a transcontinental chain, the third link of which is supplied by the great training station at Newport, R. I. There has been in the past a training station at Mare Island, Cal., but far from San Francisco, but certain objections to this site led the authorities of the navy department to favor the creation of a new and up-to-date station under the shelter of Point Loma, where the climate casting the last lingering glance below, where the world's flame of the candle flickered yellow, the blows of the cleaver echoed sharply as they clustered about the stove, welcoming the warmth of it. It had been frigid below decks, although we had been scarcely conscious of it in our excitement. But now we stood shivering, gazing into each other's faces and actually afraid to talk lest the whole occurrence should prove a dream from which a chance word might awaken us. Three million pesos—here, actually here; almost within reach of our hands; they were digging for them just below; even then, in the silence, we could hear the faint echo of blows being struck against the ice. Three million pesos—and it was all ours, our very own—to divide, to spend, to do with exactly as we pleased. We had dreamed about all this before, on the decks of the ill-fated Sea Queen, but now we sought to grasp it as an actual existing fact, and our minds seemed paralyzed by the knowledge. I even forgot that Doris was present until she touched me gently on the shoulder, and I looked down into her questioning eyes.

"Do you not know what we have just discovered below?" I asked, still tingling in the marvel of it. "The treasure, the Spanish treasure!" "Oh, yes," but the soft voice seemed tinged with sadness. "Yet it does not greatly interest me. Money seems so little here, so utterly valueless." The simple words, the tone of their utterance brought me to myself as though I had received an electric shock. She was still smiling, yet all at once I noticed how white her face was, how dark the shadows beneath her eyes. The lure of the gold vanished from my mind, as if some wizard's wand had waved it away. I thought of the treacherous sea without, the life and death struggle before us, those dreary leagues separating us from hope. My hands clasped hers, the expression of love in my eyes brightening her face instantly.

"That is so much better, Jack," she said tenderly. "I know it was only the madness of a moment which caused you to forget. Come out on deck with me until you lose all memory of it—until I bring you back to real life again."

"I do not need it, sweetheart," and I bent low, looking into her eyes. "The fever has left my blood. I hardly know how it ever laid such hold upon me, but the thought of all that wealth below drove me as mad as the others. You see how much I need you!" "Oh, no; you would have recovered without my help, although it might have required more time to complete a cure. But I fear there is no hope for the men."

"I certainly shall not spare you to minister to them." She laughed, her happiness of disposition returning. "That would be useless; they are of different stamp. The fever for sudden wealth is in the blood of all of us. See how excited Celeste is. Perhaps if I had ever experienced poverty I might be crazed also. But it is so foolish here—here, and she swept her hands about in comprehensive gesture, "when we know it can be ours only for a day, or at most a week."

"But we have not given up hope," I protested. "Why should we? The Donna Isabel seems stanch beneath us."

"Even in case of that miracle I want nothing to do with this treasure," she said gravely. "It seems to me, Jack, there must be a curse upon that gold below. It will never do good to any human being. It was stolen by the sword, won for Spain by the shedding of blood, and has since cursed this ship and all who sailed in her. The living and the dead guarded it, and now we have come into its evil clutch. It is not superstition but faith which makes me say this—the Donna Isabel will never make port; that gold below will never do a soul on board anything but harm. I wish it could be left where it is, buried in the ice."

locks in discontent, now that the ship and weather gave us little occasion for concern. Here they vigorously piled the cleaver, working in relays of two hours each, during the remainder of the day and night. After breakfast had been served we all of us went below to unite our strength in hauling forth the loosened box from the ice cavity.

We accomplished this by resorting to block and tackle, and even then experienced no small difficulty in dragging it away from the ice grip. Under the dim candlelight it appeared a fair-sized sea-chest, constructed of some heavy, dark wood, and bound securely by metal bands, with a cumbersome lock. A considerable quantity of water from somewhere continued to seep down into the lazaretto, making the floor an icy paddle, and so we tugged on to the ropes again, and hoisted the chest up through the trap-door out upon the cabin deck. I could find no keys in any of the staterooms, and we must have been half an hour breaking the rusty lock and prying open the lid, the only sounds audible the blows struck and the heavy breathing of the men. Finally we reached apart the last band, and our eager eyes beheld the revealed contents—pieces of eight, yellow and level to the top! There was a wild yell, a fierce scramble, the crazed men digging their fingers into the coins, handling them, fondling them, laughing and crying like children in their excitement, and cursing each other as they struggled for a chance at the box. For the moment, staring down at the dull glow of the metal, I even lost control of myself, scarcely aware of the mad uproar. It was actually there—there before me! That old Spanish record had all been true; here, and beneath that ice between decks lay the remainder—three million pesos! Here was the wealth of a king; here, almost within reach of our hands, and it was all ours—ours, if we could only bring it forth to where it possessed value.

If we only could! This thought struck me like a blow. I knew the truth, the truth. There was not one chance in a thousand—not one. I made no effort to deceive myself. The men, even the mate, blinded by the gold, had ignored facts plain as day to me—the terrible listing of the ship to port, the constant seeping of water into the hold, the increasing suddenness of the staggering hull—all these combined to tell the story—that the Donna Isabel was doomed. No power of men, situated as we were, could ever save her. The protecting lee-shield, by help of which she had drifted ghost-like out of the Antarctic, pounded by the fierce seas, loosened by the milder air of more northern latitudes, had already commenced to flake off, and the invading water was discovering crevices everywhere along her ancient seams. We had come to the gold; we had discovered it; it was ours. But we could only gaze on it, and give it back to the ocean in exchange for our lives. I straightened up, my lips compressed, and looked beyond the struggling figures of the men into Doris' questioning gray eyes. Father of Mercy! I possessed something worth more than money—the love of a woman! Ay, but what of the men? What of the men? It would be cutting their hearts out; yet it must be done—done, if necessary, with all the brutality of a slave driver. She had said this treasure was a curse, a legacy of crime and death, a prize for dead men. Not while I retained mind and body to battle should it cost our lives. I pushed De Nova backward, and planted myself across the open chest, cowering into the uplifted, angry faces.

"That's enough, men. This is part of the treasure all right, but there is no occasion for you to go crazy over it. Put those coils back—to you, hear, McKnight?—put them back, and we'll shut down the lid. They're nice to look at, and dream over, but that's about all the good we'll ever get of them. Were there any signs of others down there in the ice, Johnson?"

"No, sir, but they'll be there."

"Oh, yes, no doubt they'll be there, but the only way we could ever get them out would be to run this hooker ashore in some mild climate and let the ice melt. It's plain enough to see what has happened. The Donna Isabel sailed in ballast, these chests being about the only cargo she carried. They shifted in the heavy seas, and the Lord only knows where they are now. Anyway, they are safe beyond the reach of your ice cleaver."

"They stared into each other's faces, the disagreeable truth slowly penetrating their minds. Kelly spoke, his voice trembling. "Then why the hell, sir, couldn't we do just what you said?" "What? Run her aground?—simply because, my lad, that shore happens to be a thousand miles away, and I doubt if this wreck keeps afloat three days longer."

Their excited faces told of incredulity, of a suspicion that I was playing with them, and I went on swiftly: "You fellows have been so crazy the last two days you haven't thought of anything but gold. I tell you it is not the treasure, but our lives we've got to save. The ice is peeling off the sides, and the ship is taking water like a sieve. We are going to be driven back to the long-bow, and how much of this heavy stuff can we transport in her? I know it's mighty tough, lads, but we might as well face things as they are."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Jamesville Daily Gazette, March 31, 1860.—Attempted Burglary.—Last night an attempt was made by burglars to enter the house of Mr. W. O. Wheeler, finding it impossible to break into the lower story, the rascals endeavored to climb the lightning rods to the roof to the light part of the house. When about half way up, the rods, which were of copper, gave way precipitating the fellow to the ground. The noise awakened Mr. W. who got up and opened the window and seeing the intruder there very pertinently asked him what he was doing there. He left the premises to show his disgust at being thus incontinently accosted.

Woman Suffrage Convention.—A Woman's Suffrage convention will be held in this city at Lippin's hall on Friday, April 2nd, commencing at ten o'clock, and continuing through the day and evening. Milwaukee, Rev. Maxson and other prominent speakers are expected to be present.

A Handsome Easter Offering.—On Sunday last the Easter offering at Christ church amounted to the very handsome sum of $340. We learn that it is the purpose of the parish to make some very necessary repairs upon their church edifice, with a portion of the money.

Unpleasant.—The weather today is decidedly disagreeable, it being chilly and threatening storm.

City Politics.—In all our acquaintance with Jamesville we have never known a more quiet time in politics than exists at present. So far from there being any scramble after offices, the difficulty seems to be to induce men to take places which must necessarily be filled. It looks now as though the convention to nominate a municipal ticket would be a very harmonious affair so far as the Republicans are concerned. What the Democrats propose to do has not yet developed.

Man is the author of his own happiness. Let him beware how he complains of the disposition of circumstances, for it is his own disposition he blames.—Thoreau.

Sneezing Superstitions.

The Germans say: "Good health!" because they maintain, and not without reason, that the sneeze is a warning of the approach of a cold, and also marks the movement when a charm, a wish, or a suggestion may drive it away. The Persians go further in this direction, inasmuch as they exclaim: "God be thanked!" its being held that the sneeze has actually put to flight some evil spirit that was about to gain entrance to a man's body in order to feed upon his sacred fires.—The Sunday Magazine.

If You Have a Cancer and it is curable, I'll cure it to stay cured and agree to refund every cent of my fees in case of recurrence. I'll furnish you with the very best reference as to my financial stability and personal character. If you care to call and talk it over with me before deciding upon treatment I'll show you what I have accomplished in the cure of cancer during the 19 years of my practice in Jamesville. Mrs. Blunk had a cancer upon her nose. It was a serious one and would have caused a great deal of trouble had she not placed herself under my care. The following letter shows her appreciation of my services:

Dr. G. H. Webster, Jamesville, Wis.

Dear Doctor: I cheerfully testify to the merits of Dr. Webster's cancer cure, for I have been permanently cured, after having an unsuccessful operation by another doctor. I was losing all hopes when I heard of Dr. Webster, and sincerely recommend him to all sufferers.

MRS. GEO. BLUNK, Jamesville, Wis.

During the treatment there is very little pain or soreness, no cutting. You can attend to your daily work without any interference.

MRS. WILLA LEONARD, EXPERT ON COUNTERFEIT MONEY.

Washington, D. C.—It has frequently been declared that women are utterly incompetent to detect counterfeit money, and without doubt, this is true of the sex as a whole; but the greatest living expert on bank notes in the United States today is a woman.

Mrs. Willa Leonard has been employed in the treasury department continuously for 45 years, having begun her work there on July 1st, 1864. She began in the counting room, but her sense of form, color and distance was so acute that she soon became expert in detecting anything unusual in a bill, and in 1870 she was made chief detective of counterfeit money in this department, which position she has held ever since, and has never made but one mistake. Whatever she stamps "good goes and her 'bad' does it to destruction.

When Mrs. Leonard began her work the country was flooded with practical currency, called "shipwreckers." Millions of dollars of these are still of these have been counterfeited in out. At one time or another many well as the bills of larger denominations. To the younger persons employed in this department these are very puzzling, but to Mrs. Leonard they are old acquaintances, as her years of experience have made her familiar with them.

In appearance Mrs. Leonard is about 65 or 70 years of age and a rheumatic trouble has compelled her to go about on crutches, but her eyes are as bright and keen as an eagle's and every morning between 7 and 8 o'clock she may be seen alighting from a carriage at the treasury building, ready for her day's work.

Ships' Sixth Sense.

It is superfluous to comment on the beneficent possibilities of the sunken bell, which, in effect, endows ships with the "sixth sense" that fish are supposed to possess—the ability to sense, in the deep sea, the fact that land is near.
